Fort Worth Housing Solutions Celebrates Fathers at Free Community Event

FORT WORTH, Texas – In an effort to encourage families in federal housing connect Dads with their kids, Fort Worth Housing Solutions (FWHS) is partnering with the Tarrant County Housing Assistance Office to host a free community event as part of the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development’s National Father’s Day Initiative.

In its fifth year, the nationally held event will take place Thursday, June 9, at the FWHS headquarters, 1201 E. 13th Street, Fort Worth, Texas, 76102. Vendors will be on site to provide services and resources to families. Food, games, prizes and photos with Dad will be provided. More information about the participating agencies can be found here.

Fort Worth Housing Solutions’ President Naomi W. Byrne said, “FWHS and TCHAO are honored to celebrate the fathers and father figures of our families. We realize that sometimes the men in our communities are not always integrally connected to services, and one of our goals is to help connect men to resources that can improve their lives and the lives of their families. Through our celebration, our fathers are recognized for being positive male role-models with the kids they love.”

Since its creation, FWHS has been a recognized leader in the administration of affordable housing programs and the provision of supportive services. FWHS’ business model has evolved to include an emphasis in the acquisition, development and management of multi-family properties as a way to provide more affordable housing opportunities in Fort Worth.
